

Weaving is an ancient endeavor that is practiced around the world by all its inhabitants, which include plants, animals, and people. We all participate in the weaving process whether it is through our language as Chief Janice George said: “weaving is part of the Salish tree of life; from the roots of this tree grow the teachings that form the Coast Salish worldview”. As well as through the physical act of weaving itself. We will learn reverse warping on a Coast Salish two-bar loom. After successfully warping we will twine weave a specific pattern using only our fingers.
