

Building a Culture that Grows with the Business: Management Foundations

Credit Options: 12, 8, or 4 credit

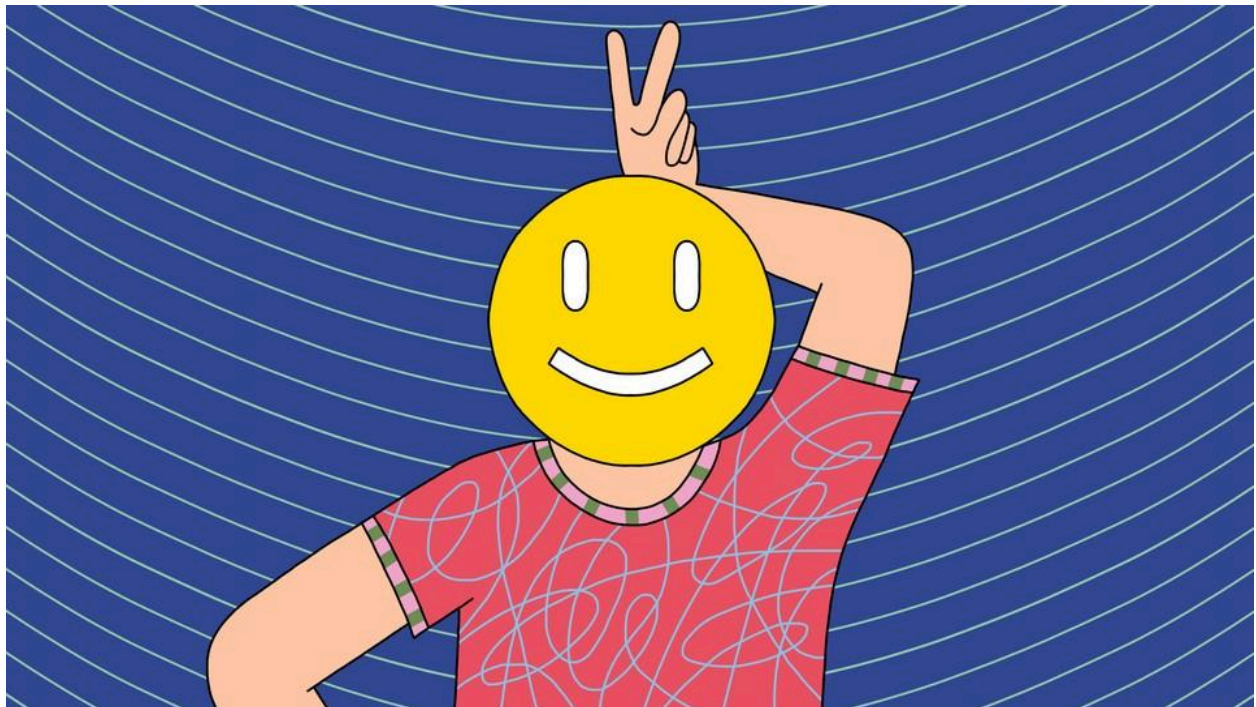

Synchronous Instruction: Zoom, 6:00pm – 9:30 pm, Monday, 100% Remote

Additional Instructional Activities: project-based group work

Teaching Team: Taki Hirakawa, PhD, and several other business leaders and coaches

Instructor contact: Taki.Hirakawa@evergreen.edu

- This practical, hands-on class explores insights from behavioral science, leadership, and marketing to become a more effective authentic leader at work.
- Explore, discover, and develop your own style of communication and collaboration skills, including how and when to use humor effectively, and how to negotiate without authority
- No prerequisites, merely the curiosity to embrace ambiguity and risk taking!
- You'll leave this class with both a practical toolkit and a fundamental shift in mindset: navigating your career and life on the precipice of a smile

Insight #1: In negotiations, humor can make you more persuasive.

Insight #2: Humor can help you land your dream job.