LIMINALITY

and the transfer of knowledge in Irish poetry

ויחוי אויידי אוידי איידי אוידי אוידי אוידי אוידי אוידי אוידי איידי אוידי אוידי אוידי אוידי איידי איי plupalin fignificant. Mite adponart pingila Adunge Bue Bugulary 1= nui Bue plupalique quuncities quipnos simme por= parent 2 2175 up mul Dompapeauffal for chun loid lun luce nad cel hung mo lebrun mo hnoch for chun Trynoch /Fidburdie mapaten poper co con maje da arenne a masterin . Inna nan ...

The Scribe in the Woods

A hedge of trees surrounds me: A blackbird sings to me Above my lined booklet The birds chant their songs to me. The cuckoo sings to me lovely and clear In a grey cloak from the ramparts of the bushes. Well indeed does the Lord look after me As I write with care in the woodland shade.

Elements of Liminality:

- Forest
- Birds
- Shade

- Shroud
- Transference
- Occupation

