

Koschei the Deathless, also known as Koschei the Immortal, is a powerful sorcerer in Slavic folklore. He acquired immortality by separating himself from death by putting his soul into an egg hidden inside a duck, which was hidden inside a giant hare, which was locked in an iron box, buried under an oak tree that grows on an island, which appears on no map.

